Jack LAWSON, 23, animal attendant at the local circus winter quarters died early Monday morning in Woodlawn Hospital from injuries received New Year's day when Sampson, 500-pound male lion attacked him while he was engaged in cleaning the cat's den.

Following the attack, the injured man was rushed to the hospital where it was discovered that he had suffered badly lacerated hands, arms and limbs. Anti-tetanus serum was administered and many stitches were used to close the wounds. Physicians in charge innovated a close check-up for signs of infection, but in spite of this "pasteurella" of lion fever developed.

Lawson entered the cage after other attendants had driven the big cat into the tunnel which connects the cage-blocks to the training arena where Clyde BEATTY was at the time forming his cats in the new animal act ensemble.

As Sampson, the lion which last winter was responsible for Beatty's broken ribs in an attack in the arena, left the cage and entered the chute, Lawson stepped into the cage. A trap door which holds the cats in the chute failed to work, and Sampson, becoming frightened wheeled and went bounding back into his den.

Lawson was able to fight the big cat off for a few minutes with the handle of his broom, but a piledriver blow by the cat broke the stick in his hands, and he went down beneath the tawny form of the cat.

The frightened screams of attendants brought Beatty from the arena, gun in hand. A few flashes from the pistol drove the infuriated beast from the victim, and Beatty, assisted by other cage attendants dragged him to safety.

Lawson, whose home is listed as Lock Springs, Missouri, came to the COLE BROS-CLYDE BEATTY circus last winter. He was on the animal training staff during the summer season, and left the employ of the circus when the season closed at Macon, Ga., November 6.

During the engagement at Flint, Mich., in November, where Beatty appeared for three days, Lawson applied again for a place on the staff. Since return of the animals to winter quarters here he has been retained as a cage-man. He was to have gone with Beatty on a vaudeville tour Jan. 16.

Logansport, Ind., Feb. 18. -- Evidence submitted at the coroner's inquest Monday morning failed to establish the exact time that Elmer Glen KINZIE, 34, Twelve Mile man, met death beneath the wheels of a Wabash train last week. The dismembered body was found along the tracks east of the east city limits of Logansport Friday morning by members of a track crew enroute to work.

That the body had remained on the ground for sometime after the fatality was established by the fact that feet and hands were found to be frozen.

Charles T. HARVEY, 1221 North third street, personal friend of Kinzie, testified at the inquest that he believed he was the last acquaintance of the Twelve Mile man to see him alive. Harvey recalled seeing Kinzie walking along the Wabash railroad track, near Eighteenth street about 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. At that time there was an east bound Wabash freight train that had been "cut" at the crossing to permit traffic to use the street, Harvey pointed out. Kinzie was dressed then in the clothes found on his body, Harvey declared.

Details of the injuries, which were numerous, suffered by Kinzie were listed by Glen WISEMAN, of the Miller and Chase mortuary; and presented in typewritten form to the coroner at the time Mr. Wiseman testified at the inquest. The mortuary employee identified articles found in the clothing of the train victim.

Charles HARRELL, 823 Spear street, at whose home Kinzie retained a room, stated at the investigation that Kinzie had been at his room Tuesday and Wednesday. He also pointed out that a young man delivered a suit case to the Harrell home early Thursday evening stating that Glen Kinzie would call for it later in the evening. He did not call.

GOODRICH and the two, together with Jess SMITH, went to the Deboo cottage.

The men found the home cold, fires in both stoves were out and water in containers was frozen solid. Going to the bedroom they found the body, fully clothed and with covers drawn partly over it.

Milwaukee police late this afternoon found Mrs. Alice CASEY, mother of Lester CASEY, at 1605 West Juneau Avenue, Milwaukee. A sister, Miss Eunice CASEY, is on her way to this city to claim her brother's body, which is being held in the Val Zimmerman Funeral Apartment.

Lester CASEY, aged 29, Milwaukee, Wis., died in the Woodlawn Hospital at 4 o'clock Wednesday morning from injuries which he received Saturday evening when he was struck by a tractor and trailer driven by Lewis KELLY, employee of a Logansport trucking company.

Dr. Dean STINSON, county coroner, stated that death was due to concussion of the brain and to a gas bacillus infection which developed in a wound on the right arm which Casey suffered when he was struck by Kelly's vehicle.

The accident occurred eight miles north of Rochester in Road 31. Kelly was south bound in Road 31 and Casey was hitch-hiking in the same direction. Kelly was not held by officers who made an investigation of the accident as Casey violated the Indiana state laws by walking with traffic and not against it.

Kelly told officers that he was blinded by the lights of an on-coming car and did not see Casey until he was upon him. Kelly stated he swerved his tractor to avoid striking Casey but that the trailer hit Casey throwing him into the ditch. Casey suffered internal injuries and fractures of the skull and clavicle.

Sheriff Boyd PETERSON and members of the Indiana State Police have been trying for the past three days to obtain some trace of Casey's relatives or friends. Milwaukee police resorted to the use of the radio in that city in an effort to obtain information about Casey but all efforts up until the time The News-Sentinel went to press were unsuccessful.

Casey it is thought was a traveling machinist. He had a Cutler-Hammer Employees Mutual Benefit Association policy in his clothing which was dated in Milwaukee on August 8, 1935. He also had another insurance policy in his clothing.

This was an individual certificate policy and was one written by the Equitable Life Assurance Society on May 26, 1930 through the A. O. Smith Corporation of Milwaukee. This policy was number 0184-10265. An additional rider of $100 was attached to the policy which was dated November 30, 1930.

Casey also had a marriage license on his person which was issued in Milwaukee on January 2, 1929. His bride was Edna SCHILLING, who at that time resided at 548 Reed street, Milwaukee. One of the witnesses was Otto ZASTROW, 2526-B North 15th street, Milwaukee. The justice who performed the ceremony was Carl HAMPEL.

Casey has a son named Donald Lester CASEY, who was born on August 8, 1929, a birth certificate which he had in his pocket disclosed. Casey also had $28.15 in money in a wallet and a Chicago and Milwaukee railroad ticket stamped on March 5.

It is believed that Casey has attended Berlin College in Wisconsin as he had a program for the home-coming at that college on October 26, 1935. Casey kept a very minute account of all of his expenses in a book which was found in his pocket. The last entry in this book was February 21, 1936. In this book was also an itemized account of the expenses incident to the birth of his son.

Casey was 5 feet 10 inches tall, weight 170 pounds, light hair, gray eyes and was dressed in a blue mixed suit and black overcoat.

DURNBAUGH, who preceded in death a number of years ago.

TATMAN, of Oakdale, Calif.; Mrs. Josephine MEISER, of Dover, Mich., and Mrs. Dorothy ALLEN, of Dover, Mich. Seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild also survive.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Burton died in the Cass County Hospital in Logansport at 2:40 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Edgar BURTON, 29, farmer living three miles southeast of Fulton near the Cass-Fulton county line, is in a critical condition in the Cass County Hospital in Logansport from wounds which he allegedly received Tuesday afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock when he was stabbed with a knife in the hands of his father-in-law, Joseph MUSSELMAN, aged 67, of Fulton. Musselman is being held in the Fulton county jail pending the outcome of Burton's injuries.

Musselman is alleged to have attacked his son-in-law when they quarreled over possession of hogs the younger man was loading onto a truck to be hauled to another farm he had just leased. Musselman is charged with assault and battery with intent to kill, preferred by Sheriff Boyd PETERSON. The case had been filed in the Fulton circuit court. High bond will be demanded by Prosecutor Dale POENIX.

Doctors in the Cass County Hospital have been waging a desperate fight to save Burton's life. They have succeeded in stopping the blood flow from a deep wound on the left side of the chest just above the heart. The flow of blood was checked through an autotransfusion and a second transfusion in which a pint of blood was supplied by Fred BURTON, a brother, who lives on a farm near Fulton. An autotransfusion is one in which a man's own blood is used for the transfusion and is very rarely resorted to.

The attack took place on the Musselman farm of 200 acres and which has been tenanted for several years by Burton, who is the husband of Musselman's only daughter. It was witnessed by Earle MORRISON, employed by Burton and his two small daughters.

When Musselman appeared at the farm and saw that Burton was moving he is said to have put in a claim on the hogs and also stated that Burton owed him money. The men are said to have argued and Burton demanded that his father-in-law apologize for an alleged abusive term used some time ago.

Burton in a statement which he made to Prosecutor Dale POENIX last night in the hospital at Logansport and in the presence of witnesses related that Musselman while he was arguing with him took his pen knife from his pocket and while he (Burton) had his hands at his side, slashed him several times with the knife and then sunk the blade into his body. The left lung is believed to have been punctured.

Burton said that he grabbed the knife and with sheer strength broke the blade and in so doing cut his hand badly. Unfuriated at this turn of events, Musselman rushed toward his automobile which he had driven to the farm from Fulton shouting that he would kill Burton and drew an axe from the car and started to brandish it in the air.

Burton by this time had called his farm hand Morrison and both got into his car and drove away before Musselman was able to employ the axe. Morrison drove Burton to the office of Dr. Donald MILLER at Twelve Mile. Dr. Miller, who is the Cass county coroner, after an examination, ascertained the seriousness of Burton's wounds and ordered him moved to the Logansport hospital.

After the stabbing affray, Musselman drove to Logansport, but was met at the hospital by a brother, who told him to leave before trouble was caused. He then returned to the farm where he was met by Sheriff Boyd Peterson who brought him to the jail here.

Musselman who it is said is possessed of an uncontrollable temper at times, pleaded that he struck his son-in-law in self defense. This version, however, it is said is not substantiated by Morrison, who parted the two fighting men. An examination made of Musselman's body at the jail showed no marks of violence.

Musselman is quite wealthy. He is the owner of several farms in Liberty township and a house in Fulton. He lives with his wife in Fulton. He is to be closely questioned late today by Prosecutor Poenix, Sheriff Peterson and state police.

The incident Tuesday afternoon was the outgrowth of recent controversies between Musselman and his son-in-law, neighbors and friends say. The men have been known to quarrel over money matters in the past.

Prosecutor Poenix stated this afternoon that in event Burton should die, he would ask that the Fulton county grand jury be called. Musselman would be indicted for murder.

Reports from the hospital at Logansport late this afternoon were to the effect that Burton was in a critical condition and little hope was entertained for his recovery.

Mrs. Mary J. PHILLIPS, former resident of this city succumbed at her home in Chicago Wednesday morning, according to meager details received here today by friends. The deceased was the wife of the late John C. PHILLIPS, who at one time was Fulton county auditor.

The Phillips during their residence in Rochester resided in a house on the lot which is now occupied by the Brubaker garage. Mrs. Phillips is survived by two daughters and a son, Don [PHILLIPS].

Casey received his fatal injuries when he was hitch hiking along Road 31 eight miles north of this city. Kelly said he did not see Casey because of the bright lights of an approaching car.

She suffered a skull fracture, loss of blood and general shock. Three blood transfusions were given Tuesday night and Wednesday in an effort to save her life.

Witnesses to the accident, which occurred at Lake View street and Lake Shore drive, said the truck had come to a complete stop at the intersection and then turned to go east on Lake Shore drive.

The girl darted out into the street while looking back over her shoulder at a group of children, it was said, and ran into the side of the truck, striking the side of her face. She was thrown to the pavement.

John R. BARR, 75, a pioneer citizen of Rochester and Fulton county, passed away at 6 o'clock Saturday morning, at his residence, 315 West 9th street, this city. News of his sudden demise came as a most severe shock to a host of his friends throughout this community. Death which was attributed to heart trouble came in the wake of an attack of influenza which Mr. Barr suffered three weeks ago. The deceased, however, had only been bedfast since Friday morning.

John Riley [BARR], son of George and Susan BARR was born on a farm in Franklin township, Kosciusko county, on December 4th, 1860. Mr. Fields had gone to the home of his nephew last Monday to spend a fortnight with him. The deceased had been in ill health for the past ten years but his death was entirely unexpected.

Mr. Fields was born in Shelbyville on September 8, 1861. His parents were George and Matilda FIELDS. He had resided in Fulton county for 29 years, moving here from Tipton county.

The deceased was married to Miss Emma NEWTON in a ceremony which was performed at Tipton in 1884. Two years ago the aged couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. Fields had followed the occupation of farming all of his life.

The funeral services for the late Edgar BURTON, aged 29, farmer living southeast of Fulton, who died in the Cass County Hospital in Logansport, Wednesday from knife wounds allegedly inflicted by his father-in-law, Joseph MUSSELMAN, 68, Fulton, last Tuesday, were held from the United Brethren Church in Fulton, Saturday afternoon.

Over 1200 persons attended the services. They filled all of the available space in the church and the basement of the edifice and the overflow crowd stood in the church yard. Two state policemen were on duty to police the crowd and to keep an aisle open so that the family and pallbearers could pass. It was the largest funeral held in Fulton since that of the late John STANLEY, state policeman, who died of wounds he suffered while in the line of duty.

Mr. Burton was a member of the United Brethren Church at Fulton and was the teacher of the Boys Class and the leader of the Fulton Boy Scout Troop. The members of the class and scouts headed the funeral procession into the church.

The pallbearers were Raymond KIRK, Byron KENT, Ralph HELT, Elgy RENTSCHLER, Lloyd WERNER and Earl MORRISSEY, who was employed on the Burton farm and who was one of the witnesses to the slaying. Many beautiful floral tributes were sent by Mr. Burton's many friends.

Rev. J. W. LAKE, pastor of the Fulton church, read the scripture from the fourteenth chapter of St. John, 1 to 21 verses. He then lead in prayer. Rev. H. W. FRANKLIN, Decatur, former pastor of the Fulton church, gave the funeral oration, using as his text the sixty-eighth verse of the sixth chapter of St. John, whose subject is "Whom Shall We Go To."

The male quartette composed of Guy NELLANS, Don POWNALL, Clyde CHAMP and Carl NELLANS who were accompanied by Mrs. Guy NELLANS, rendered several vocal selections. Burial was made in the cemetery at the north edge of Fulton.

Joseph Musselman, father-in-law of Edgar Burton and his alleged slayer who is being held in the Fulton county jail, was denied permission to attend the funeral of his son-in-law, although he had requested that officers take him to the church. His wife did not attend the services.

In the meantime, the Fulton county grand jury which was convened Saturday morning by Judge Robert MILLER at the request of the Prosecutor Dale POENIX, started its deliberations. It was necessary for the jury commissioners to draw a sixth member of the jury after it was found that Albert McGRIFF, who was drawn as one of the regular panel, had moved to Marshall county to reside. Carl BIDDINGER was selected to fill this vacancy.

While it is not known what the grand jurors are investigating, it is believed they are conducting a probe into the death of Mr. Burton. Persons who were noticed to enter the grand jury room on the second floor of the courthouse, in the main, came from Fulton and the south part of Liberty township.

It is hardly possible that the grand jury will conclude its deliberations before Wednesday or Thursday. Musselman is being held in the county jail on charges of assault and battery with intent to kill, which were preferred by Sheriff Boyd PETERSON after the affray at the Burton farm, which it is said, had its inception over trouble about the division of hogs on the farm after Burton had notified his father-in-law that he was leaving his farm as a tenant.

Hartman received his fatal injuries when his head was crushed in the door of the cab of the truck, when the vehicle turned over into the ditch after the crash.

Maroney and Eastwood were thrown clear of the wreckage and indications were that Hartman was making a desperate attempt to leave the cab of the truck when it turned over.

Mrs. Frank ALEXANDER was called to Marion Tuesday, because of the serious aeroplane accident, which later resulted in the death of her daughter, Miss Margaret CONNORS, aged 19. Miss Connors was injured at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning and died in the hospital at Marion at 4 p.m.

Miss Connors received her fatal injuries while taking flying instructions from Ed MARQUIS, aged 56, manager of the Marion flying field. Mr. Marquis, according to witnesses, was at the controls at the time the plane nose-dived to the earth from a height of 250 feet.

In the accident, Miss Connors suffered fractures of the skull, and limbs and her chest was crushed. She remained in a semi-conscious condition from the time she was injured until death claimed her life. Her mother was at her bedside when she passed away.

Miss Connors was well known in this city. She spent many summers at Lake Manitou. Miss Connors was injured in an automobile accident in Wyoming last summer in which she and her sister were hurt.

Miss Margaret CONNORS, 19-year-old licensed pilot, and Ed MARQUIS, 56, manager of the Marion airport, were injured fatally at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, when the airplane in which they were flying, fell from 250 feet into a plowed field just west of the airport.

The new Aeronca two-place cabin ship, delivered Monday to the Marion Aviation Club, had dual controls and it is not known, who was flying.

Capt. Frank ESTILL of Indianapolis aeronautics instructor for the Department of Commerce, flew here, investigated the accident and said he would send his report to the Federal bureau. His information showed the ship was coming into the airport for a landing when it stalled at a height of about two hundred and fifty feet and crashed, but nothing about the wreckage indicated a structural fault prior to the accident, Capt. Estill said.

Marquis died instantly and Miss Connors, her face crushed almost beyond recognition, died six hours later in Marion General Hospital.

Marquis, an experienced pilot with a long log of flying hours, had been manager of the Marion airport since 1929. Surviving are the widow, who was at the airport when the tragedy occurred, the mother, Mrs. Logenia MARQUIS of Summitville; three sisters and two brothers.

The badly decomposed body of Emory KOROS, aged 51, was found late Sunday afternoon in his modest six room home at the edge of a large huckleberry marsh, two and one-half miles northeast of Leiters Ford, by South Bend relatives of the victim. It is thought that Koros had been dead for ten days and that he was murdered. The farm is better known as the S. L. EDINGTON place.

The body was found by Margaret VanSLAGER, 2010 Kimble Avenue, South Bend, a niece of the dead man, and her husband Steve VanSLAGER, when they drove to the Koros home Sunday afternoon to visit their relative, who lived alone.

Mr. VanSlager knocked at the door and received no response. He noted a sickening effluvium as soon as he opened the door in the Koros home. Investigating the [odor] VanSlagers found the dead body of their relative lying on the floor of a second story bedroom.

Mr. VanSlager called Dr. Dean STINSON, county coroner, who with Sheriff Boyd PETERSON and Prosecutor Dale POENIX, drove to the Koros home, where they conducted an investigation.

The officers found that a terrible struggle had taken place in the room. Under the body of Koros was his .22 calibre rifle loaded, but which had not been fired. Over the floor of the room was scattered the box of shells of the same calibre as the rifle.

Blood about the room indicated that death had not been instant and that Koros had thrashed around following the firing of the fatal shot. The body was moved to the Lukenbill Mortuary in Leiters Ford, where Dr. Stinson conducted a postmortem.

The examination showed that Koros had died from a bullet which had entered his back below the left shoulder and had emerged through the chest. The bullet had clipped the heart. The bullet had been fired from a gun of much larger calibre than Koros's rifle, thus disputing the theory that he had committed suicide.

The three officers in their reconstruction of the crime believe that Koros was shot as he went to get something out of the closet in the bedroom of his home. His assailant then in an effort to cover up the crime by giving it the appearance of suicide placed Koros' rifle under his body. A number of good fingerprints were taken from the rifle.

John HORVATH, 1012 Kimble Avenue, South Bend, a nephew came to this city yesterday. Horvath operates a tavern in South Bend which was held-up several weeks ago by bandits who obtained a large amount of money. Horvath and Mrs. VanSlager were given permission to move the body to a South Bend undertaking parlor. The body of Koros was in such condition that it had to be placed in a rubber bag to be transported.

Koros was born in Hungary and had been in the United States for thirty-two years. He had resided in South Bend and bore the reputation of having accumulated considerable money. He was for a number of years the collector for "City Life" a Hungarian newspaper published in South Bend. He had worked in the Studebaker plant in South Bend in 1928 and 1929.

Authorities are seeking evidence to support any of three theories that he had been murdered -- that Koros fairly wealthy was shot in a robbery; that he was killed in revenge for some as yet obscure personal grudge or that he fought with some associates over some enterprise thought by officers to have been connected with the illicit liquor traffic. No money was found on Koros or in his home. A few letters written in Hungarian were on his person.

Koros was known as a heavy drinker. In his home Sheriff Peterson, Coroner Stinson and Prosecutor Dale Poenix found a number of empty liquor bottles and a fairly large amount of cracked corn. Reports that the farm had been used for production of illicit liquor were received by officers also it is stated. Search of the marsh about the Koros home was being made Monday in an effort by officers to find any clue that might lead to the solving of the mystery.

Koros came to the farm about one year ago to reside. It is said the farm, which contains 80 acres a large amount of which is covered by the huckleberry marsh was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. VanSLAGER. Koros associated little with his neighbors and seemed rather a man of mystery.

Koros, it is said frequently entertained parties of friends from South Bend, who were Hungarians. Another thing which puzzles officers is that a man who had been so prominently identified with business enterprises in South Bend, as had Koros, why he should come out to a little farm on an infrequently traveled road to reside.

Sheriff Peterson and Prosecutor Poenix went to South Bend today where they were to consult officers there about Koros in an effort to learn something of his past. They also planned to question Koros' friends thinking perhaps they could give them some light as to who might have slain the former South Bend Hungarian.

The place where Koros lived is not far from the farm where Mrs. Mary SINGER and her son Alonzo [SINGER] were murdered one year ago by Charles CLARK of Kokomo. During the past year local officers have had much work to do in connection with murders. The Robert FINKENBINER murder trial was one and the alleged murder of Edgar BURTON by his father-in-law Joseph MUSSELMAN, was another.

James HORNER, aged 80, a former resident of this city, died at his home in Chili Sunday evening after an illness of several weeks due to heart and kidney trouble. The deceased formerly lived in Rochester and was at one time employed by the Sowers Ice Cream Company. Funeral services are to be held in Chili Tuesday with burial there.

Tuesday, May 19, 1936

The slaying of Emory KOROS, aged 51, farmer living north of Leiters Ford whose body was found Sunday afternoon by his nephew Steve VanSLAGER of South Bend, is still shrouded in mystery. Death is believed to have occurred ten days prior to the time the body was found.

Services for the deceased were held in the Sacred Heart Cemetery in South Bend Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Because of the badly decomposed condition of the body, the St. Joseph county coroner, refused a permit for a church funeral service. A graveside service, attended by relatives was then held.

Sheriff Boyd PETERSON and Prosecutor Dale POENIX were in South Bend all of Monday in an effort to uncover some leads which might solve the mystery surrounding the death of Koros. The local law enforcement officers were assisted by South Bend city and county officers. A number of Koros' friends were interrogated.

No definite clues as to the slaying have been found and investigators see the possibility of one of three motives, robbery, revenge, or a liquor party aftermath. That the victim was robbed after being slain is evident for no money was found on his person.

Koros, a former collector for a Hungarian newspaper, published in South Bend, was reputed quite wealthy and was thought to have had much money hidden around his humble farm home. Relatives could not find any money when they searched the home after Koros' lifeless body had been found, thus giving credence to the theory that he had been murdered and then robbed.

Koros has lived near Leiters Ford for the past year. He was a bachelor and lived the life of a recluse. He associated little with his neighbors and frequently entertained parties of Hungarians from South Bend.

Mr. Koros was born in Hungary August 16, 1884 and settled in South Bend 32 years ago. He leaves a brother, Joseph KOROS in Hungary and two cousins, Mrs. Margaret VanSLAGER and Joseph HORVATH, both of South Bend.

Mrs. Ida E. Howell was born July 14th, 1857 in Kewanna, Indiana. She was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William T. CLELAND. On December 25th, 1877 she was united in marriage to Henry D. HOWELL. Mrs. Howell was a member of the Kewanna Methodist church and the Order of Eastern Star.

"In the measureless realm of time, how brief is our earthly stay," for it is written that a thousand years are but a day in eternity. The City of Rochester is today bereft of the temporal presence of an esteemed old citizen, whose daily walk in life was one of continuous honor and rectitude of character. It is this writer's province to proclaim this truth, since the subject of this brief eulogy lived next-door neighbor for a period of over forty-six years. That experience qualifies the statement of his exemplary citizenship beyond any question of doubt. Conviction is that our regret is counterparted by glorious advent to life celestiale, a thought to assuage family grief in the knowledge that his gain should be our glad admission of triumphant entry in that "house not made with hands."

Peter J. STINGLY, son of Frederick and Anna E. MADARY STINGLY, was born at Basil, Ohio, January 18, 1856, entered higher life at his home, 1222 Madison street, Rochester, Ind., 315 a.m. May 19, 1936, aged 80 years, 4 months and 1 day.

The deceased came to Fulton county with his parents and located in Liberty township, near Fulton, when he was a child of ten years. His boyhood comprised the duties and interests incident to farm life, and common school of pioneer days in Liberty township. He attended High School at Logansport and later took a course in business and penmanship in Hall's commercial school at Logansport, walking from home to school at intervals. It is a matter of interest that he taught his first term of school in Liberty township in his young manhood and continued as teacher for a number of years.

March 21, 1880, Peter J. STINGLY and Mary A. EIKELBERNER were united in marriage, at the home of the late Andrew OLIVER, near Mud Creek, road 25. To their union two daughters were born, Mrs. Guy A. FISH, South Bend and Mrs. Walter MASON, residing in the home. Two granddaughters, Mrs. Arthur WILSON and Elizabeth FISH, and one great-granddaughter, Joyce Ann WILSON of South Bend. No other near relative, except his wife and one nephew at Peru, survive.

Mr. Stingly was an honored and respected member of Fredonia Lodge No. 122, Knights of Pythias, thus continuing faithfully to the last.

For a number of years he was a member of Citizens' Band, until his length of years and business interests precluded his pleasure in that line.

About the year 1888 he was elected as Fulton County Surveyor on the Democratic ticket, which trust he filled with great credit to himself and satisfaction to the electorate. At a succeeding election he was succeeded by a Republican in a party "land slide," following his service of six years, after which he purchased the abstract business of the late Hugh M. [STEPHENSON] and Rome C. STEPHENSON, in which he prospered up to time of his demise. In all activities and contact with business and social life he was popularly known as an honored citizen, a gracious neighbor, loving husband and indulgent father, of whom no greater compliment can be voiced than to say he was a noble man.

Funeral rites will be conducted at the Stingly home at 2:30 o'clock, Thursday, Rev. T. J. STOVALL in charge. Interment at I.O.O.F. cemetery. Friends desiring to witness the remains are welcome to call at the home up to the hour of funeral ceremony.

Within scarcely over 24 hours following his demise, which occurred at his farm home in Aubbeenaubbee township, three o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Henry H. MOON, 84, was laid to rest in the Moon cemetery late this afternoon. Mr. Moon's death was attributed to complication inherent with advanced years. The funeral rites which were followed to the letter of the decedent's request by his son Frank W. MOON, were similar to those of the early pioneer days.

Following the services which were held at the Sharon church, four neighbors of Mr. Moon carried his body which was laid in a home-made yellow pine casket to the adjacent Moon cemetery which was founded by the deceased's father in the year of 1851. There in the Moon family plot where lay his ancestors and deceased members of the Moon family, the casket was lowered into a home-made pine box, as relatives and friends paid their final tribute to one of the few remaining home-spun type of pioneers of Aubbeenaubbee township.

Through Mr. Moon's request a neighbor, Rev. William S. RAINEY, who several years ago retired from a Baptist pastorage in Kentucky, pronounced the funeral oration and reviewed the interesting life of this early pioneer. The outline of Rev. Rainey's sermon was most simple in its theme and bore out the expressions of a close friend and neighbor rather than that of the clergy.

Henry H. Moon, who succumbed on the farm on which he was born 84 years, 5 months and 22 days ago, was the son of William and Melinna (LEE) MOON. His early boyhood and youth was spent on the farm. For seven years he resided in Rochester where he followed the occupation of a painter. After this brief stay in this city he returned to the home place, which is situated about ten miles northwest of Rochester, where he has since resided.

In the year of 1877 he was united in wedlock to Catherine WENTZEL, the ceremony being performed at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. JONES, who at that time was minister of the Methodist church.

Mr. Moon was a staunch Democrat throughout his entire life served as trustee of Aubbeenaubbee township from 1909 to 1914 inclusive. He took an active interest in the affairs of his community and his political party, and his word and opinion on the affairs of his township were held in high regard by his neighbors and friends.

Mr. Moon's father who was one of the earlier settlers in the western sections of Fulton county passed away in the year of 1891 and his mother Melinna (LEE) MOON preceded in death in 1899. Other members of his immediate family who preceded him in death were, three infants, a brother George W. [MOON], who died in 1916, a sister Ellen LUNSFORD who passed away in 1917, Sidney R. MOON, of Rochester, who succumbed in 1933, Dewitt C. [MOON], succumbed in 1929, and Mrs. Mary Jane BRUCE, who succumbed in 1930. Henry H. Moon was the last member of the family of William and Melinna Moon.

The survivors are the widow, Catherine MOON, a daughter Bell MOON and a son Frank W. MOON. The latter had assisted in the management of the Moon farm during his father's illness which extended over a period of several months. Frank W. Moon is well known in the Democratic circles through the old 13th and present 2nd Congressional District of Indiana, as he was twice a candidate for the nomination of congressman of these districts. He was defeated in primaries, however, on each of these occasions by Messrs. PERKINS and DURGAN.

The four pall bearers who bore the light weight pine casket to the grave were John JAMISON, Sr.; John JAMISON, Jr.; Ira BUTT and Leonard SHRIVER, all friends and neighbors of the deceased.

Although in following out the request of the aged man for a simple pioneer funeral the brevity of time did not permit news of the death becoming current through the columns of the press a large number of friends had gathered at the Moon home early Wednesday morning as the news of the passing had been telephoned throughout the community. Mr. Thomas HARRISON, undertaker of Kewanna, had charge of the funeral arrangements.

In an interview with Gilbert CORBETT, who supervised and assisted in building the pine casket he stated he did not receive the request of building the coffin until rather late Tuesday afternoon. He then drove into Leiters Ford, secured the yellow soft pine boards, and returned to his home immediately started the construction of the coffin. He was assisted in the carpentry work by Lamont GUYER, Ira BUTT, Simon HICKLE and W. M. LUNSFORD.

According to Mr. Corbett the casket was completed at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. The interior of the casket which was trimmed in snow-white, long cloth was done by Mrs. Corbett, Mrs. Hickle and Mrs. W. M. Lunsford, all of whom were neighbors of the deceased pioneer.

Despite the limited time Mr. Corbett had in making the coffin the wood-work and designing presented a most trim appearance and carried through the lines of simplicity which were so desired by the one who was to take his eternal rest in it.

A photograph which was taken of the home-made casket just after it was completed in the Corbett barnlot, will appear in an early issue of The News-Sentinel.

Ill health was held responsible for the death of William Frank WAGONER, aged 78, well known resident of this city residing at 606 North Main Street, who committed suicide by hanging himself in a room of his home sometime during Tuesday night.

Wagoner's body was found by his uncle, William EWING at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning, when Mr. Ewing went to call on Wagoner as had been his daily custom. Mr. Ewing called Dr. Dean STINSON, coroner, and Sheriff Boyd PETERSON, who cut down the body.

Mr. Wagoner was better known by his many friends as Frank WAGONER. He had evidently planned his death with much precision. He placed a stick over a register in an upstairs bedroom. Around this stick and down through the register he dropped a rope which had been made by twisting wrapping cord.

Mr. Wagoner then placed the noose about his neck, stood on a chair and swung off. He could have saved his life had he so desired as the foot which touched the floor was trailing. Death was due to strangulation, Dr. Stinson held.

The deceased lived alone. He had been in ill health for the past five weeks at which time he suffered a sun stroke while cutting Canada thistles on his farm near this city.

Mrs. William EWING had taken Mr. Wagoner's supper to him last evening at 6 o'clock. She was the last person to see him alive. Wagoner at that time conversed with Mrs. Ewing about his financial affairs.

Mr. Wagoner had no financial worries as he was the owner of a large farm and $290 in money was found in a pocketbook which he had secreted in his bed. It is believed that he has other securities.

The deceased was a life long resident of Fulton county. He was born on a farm near Athens on July 1, 1858. His parents were James and Jennie WAGONER. His father was a Dunkard minister. He was married to Kate HARE. This marriage was dissolved by a divorce.

The end of a perfect day came to a highly respected Rochester citizen, last night, when Mrs. Henry A. REITER, attained the rubicon of life, after a long and eventful residence in this city.

She was a daughter of Samuel and Marie KEELY, born July 8, 1861, in a log cabin in Liberty township near Mud Creek and came to Rochester in early childhood, thus having witnessed the development of Rochester from primitive conditions. Mrs. Reiter had been in ill health for a long time, leading her home life in comparative quiet and humility; in humble mein with her neighbors and friends.

Mrs. Reiter was not a member of any religious denomination or fraternal organization, preferring to exemplify the teaching of the Man of Nazareth who had no church, and had no guide other than Luke XII-II. "Take no thought what ye shall answer, or what he shall say, for God will teach you in the same hour what he shall say."

In a ceremony rendered by Rev. A. E. GIFT, April 23, 1855, Henry A. REITER and Miss Helen V. (Nellie) KEELY were united in sacred bonds of matrimony. To their union two children were born, Samuel J. Stricken with a heart attack, while driving his auto in the Main street of Kewanna, Ira E. KILE, died a few seconds later as the machine crashed into a tree in front of the Harrison funeral home. The accident occurred at seven o'clock Thursday evening.

Fulton county Coroner, D. K. STINSON who was summoned to the scene conducted an autopsy at the Harrison funeral home. The coroner stated Mr. Kile was evidently the victim of heart disease rather than from minor injuries which he suffered in the crash.

The Kewanna man who was driving alone at the time was on his way to his home. Mrs. Marie HEMINGER, of Kewanna was a witness to the accident. She stated the Kile car was being driven at a low rate of speed at the time it left the highway and careened into a tree. Mrs. Heminger immediately summoned aid. Mr. Kile was still breathing at the time passersby reached the scene, however he succumbed before his body was removed from the car.

A post mortem examination of the body showed that Kile had sustained no critical injuries in the crash. It was stated that while Mr. Kile had complained of minor heart attacks on a few occasions during recent months his condition had not been regarded as extremely grave.

Ira Edwin [KILE], son of Philip and Elizabeth KILE was born February 15th, 1870, on a farm in Crawford county, Ohio. On December 26th, 1896 he was united in marriage to Bertha SHUMAKER, the ceremony being pronounced at Napoleon, Ohio. The body has been moved to the Umbaugh Funeral Home at Argos and will be returned to the son's home Saturday afternoon, where friends may call.

Albert W. BITTERS, aged 76, veteran published and editor of the Rochester Republican for many years died at his home, 1216 South Madison Street at 4 o'clock Friday morning, from a kidney infection. He had been in ill health for the past six months and unconscious for two days prior to his death.

Mr. Bitters' end was hastened by over-exertion while marching with members of the A. H. Skinner Spanish-American War Veterans Post of this city at the state convention of the organization at Vincennes in June. Largely through Mr. Bitters' efforts the 1937 encampment of the veterans was brought to this city.

The deceased was born in Peru on August 19, 1859 and was the son of Thomas Major and Marie BITTERS. He came to this city in 1873 when his father purchased the "Rochester Union Spy." This paper later became the Rochester Republican and in turn was merged with The News-Sentinel.

Mr. Bitters, according to his autobiography which is part of this obituary started his work in a newspaper office at the age of fifteen when he became the "devil" in his father's plant.

Mr. Bitters was noted for the strength of his convictions in the penning of his editorials. He was an ardent Republican and staunch believer in prohibition. He twice served as postmaster of the Rochester postoffice.

Mr. Bitters was possessed of a keen mind as to dates. He could recall readily incidents of an early day. He was the publisher of a two volumes of biographies of residents of an earlier day in Rochester and Fulton county under the title of "Home Folks. Persons who own these volumes prize them highly as they give a clear picture of Fulton county since it was created in 1829 as a governmental unit.

Mr. Bitters was married to Miss Emma SHELTON and they celebrated their fifty-third wedding anniversary on April 10. Survivors are the widow, son Harry BITTERS of this city, daughter Mrs. Talmadge DILLON, Hyattsville, Md., sister Mrs. Marguerite MILLER of this city who was associated with her brother in the publishing of the Rochester Republican, two grandchildren, John Allen [DILLON] and Virginia Alice DILLON and a nephew Earle A. MILLER of this city.

The deceased was twice master of the Rochester Masonic Lodge and he made the tenets of that organization his creed. He was a regular attendant at all lodge meetings and either as master or in other ways he assisted in the raising of many young men of this vicinity to the degree of a Master Mason.

Mr. Bitters was a member of the Rochester Chapter No. 70 of the Order of Eastern Star and the Past Matrons and Past Patrons Association of said chapter. He also was an honorary member of the A. H. Skinner Spanish-American War Veterans Post and a member of the Indiana Republican Editorian Association.

An autobiography of the deceased publisher and citizen which was compiled for the 10th anniversary issue of The News-Sentinel of December fifth, 1934, is now republished as it not only presents exacting obituary data but also gives an insight into the inimitable writings of the ex-publisher.

"I was born at Peru, Indiana, in a little cottage within a stone throw of the Miami county court house, August 19, 1859, son of Thomas Major and Maria V. E. (ROSE) BITTERS. Father was a native of Hampton county, Penn., and Mother of Fairfield county, Ohio.

"October 9, 1973, Father bought the Rochester Union Spy, weekly newspaper, of William H. MATTINGLY, and on 13th of that month I commenced my trade of printing, at present date recording over sixty-one years from office "devil," stick and rule, press and type, to editorial pencil in 1905, seving the old Daily and Weekly Republican in that capacity until October, 1923, my sister, Mrs. Marguerite MILLER, associate editor, when the machinations of politics crucified the paper and actually buried its title. Providence has graced my way with health and strength, that it is my distinction to have experienced more than two-thirds of the entire newspaper history of Rochester, during my years of service at printing. From 1859 to 1934, it will be observed in the parlance of our popular American game, I am safe on third base, and trying to steal a point on Father Time to make a home run before I quit this mundane sphere.

"In 1880, temporarily out of a job, my penchant was toward the profession of medicine, and was accepted as a student in the office of the late Dr. Cornelius HECTOR. However, financial reverses prevented entry in Scudder Medical College, at Cincinnati, so I shed both my coat and aspiration and returned to first love, the art preservation. The printing office practically constitutes my university, college and public school education, for ne'er a day was spent in school since May, 1879, leaving sixth grade at age of between twelve and thirteen years, thus my training has been in the school of hard knocks, taught by abrasion against the rough spots of life.

"During 1888 I was employed as job printer in the Rochester Sentinel office, then located over Dawson's drug store, Uncle Tully BITTERS, editor. While there employed, April 10, 1883 Miss Emma E. SHETON and Albert W. BITTERS were united in marriage, our golden wedding celebrated last year. We have ten children, Harry S. BITTERS, at our home, and Mrs. Clarence A. DILLON,

Washington, D.C. Their children, John Allen [DILLON] and Virginia Alyce DILLON, represent our hope and pride in our declining days.

“In November, 1921, I was appointed Postmaster, commissioned and assumed the post on January 1, 1922, serving out more than two commissions, the first bearing the signature of President Warren G. Harding, and the second by President Calvin Coolidge, covering nine years, three months, eleven days, retiring for Howard W. DuBOIS. Since leaving the postal service, my job has been working for Doolittle & Setmore, the most arduous task in all my active life.

“My affiliations are memberships in Rochester Lodge No. 79, F. & A. M., Rochester Chapter No. 70, Order Eastern Star, and Past Matrons’ and Past Patrons’ Association of same Chapter. Politically, I am a steadfast Republican of the Abraham Lincoln type, unafraid, nor ashamed to declare my lack of confidence in the “New Deal.” Socially, I am proud of the many friends held near and dear, of all differing convictions, and feel that no enemies seek to do harm to me or mine. For these and every other blessing I am thankful to Almighty God, for peace and tranquility of our humble home, and respect of our neighbors, relatives and associates.”

The exact date and time for the funeral arrangements had not been completed at the time The News-Sentinel went to press as word was being awaited from the daughter Mrs. Dillon. In all probability the services will be held from the Madison Avenue Christian Church Sunday afternoon with burial in the Odd Fellows Cemetery. At Mr. Bittersd’ request the Rochester Masonic Lodge will be in charge.

ALBERT W. BITTERS

Early today, under laden skies, Albert W. BITTERS, prominent citizen and dean of the Fulton county newspaper guild, signed the journalistic “30” to a useful and interesting career. A career so fraught with trials, adversities and measures of success, that Albert W. Bitters during the past score or more of years was looked upon more as an institutional force than as an individual.

Mr. Bitters possessed that enviable and rare trait of garnering facts and data concerning local, state and world-wide affairs and assimilating and retaining an ever-growing store of knowledge which made his counsel of invaluable worth.

In his newspaper career, Mr. Bitters, the publisher, grounded his feet solidly in whatever cause he deemed just and his virile writings left no room for doubt or quibbling as to where the author stood on civic, political and religious issues. His pen was always an unerring force for the betterment of Rochester and Fulton county and although adversities, which were experienced in the publishing field in later years, finally terminated his beloved newspaper, The ROCHESTER REPUBLICAN, the services of Editor Bitters were constantly solicited by his successors. His brilliant and home-spun style of journalism was thoroughly appreciated and always revered by the people of this community.

A few years after Editor Bitters relinquished the helm of the old Republican newspaper, a belated reward in the form of an appointment to the postmastership of the City of Rochester was bestowed upon him by the Republican party. In his two-term regime in this important post, his duties as a government employee were carried through in a most efficient and courteous manner which brought highest commendations from government officials and townsfolk, alike.

In all of Albert Bitters’ buriness, fraternal and social activities in a community where he spent over three score years, it is just to say he was a gentleman, a champion for all less fortunate than he and a public-spirited force which never faltered under greatest of pressure.

A man has been called, one whom will be sorely missed by the entire community. And thus, Albert W. Bitters, may the "30" which we publishers affix to your earthly associations never signify and "ending" to our memoirs of your honorable, courageous true American-type citizenship.

IN MEMORY OF ALBERT W. BITTERS

by A. B. Green

Each day we live, life becomes more of a mystery. In the sudden passing of Brother Albert W. BITTERS from our midst, Rochester and community has lost a true friend. It will not be the same not to meet his smiling countenance and enjoy the hearty greeting of his hand clasp. It can be truthfully said he was a man of high ideals and sterling worth. While we have in every community some who are builders and others who would tear down the moral fabric of society, Albert W. Bitters never faltered in championing the cause he believed to be right .

No night was too dark or road too long that would prevent him rendering assistance to a friend in need. He was a Master Mason and exemplified its teachings in his daily life. He was also historian and an able advisor of the Order of the Eastern Star. When special public notices were needed, it was his pen that furnished the copy and always in a pleasing way.

It can be said he wrought faithfully the work placed upon the tressel board of life. To say he was without faults would be untrue, he was human, none are perfect, but he always tried to do his best. His death was untimely and his brethren mourn.

Now that life's toils are o'er, and his frail bark has touched the shore, we believe the Eastern Star has met the Western Sun, at the close of life's day with a race well run.

HE IS NOT DEAD

by Marguerite Miller

In the passing of my beloved brother, Albert W. BITTERS, many things come to me of his worthwhile life, some things so fine and beautiful he kept carefully hidden except to those who could understand.

I am deeply grateful for the many loving things said of him by his multitude of friends; of the flowers sent with expressions of respect and reverence; of the comforting sermon delivered over his earthly remains; for the songs and music that made the last hour seem less sad. But to me he left an unspoken and unwritten message of the place to which he was going.

It was not of a place far away, or one of mystery, but a place of home going, of such unparalleled beauty and supernal glory as only our Heavenly Father can prepare for His children when they grow tired of this life and want to go back home.

He often said "I am not afraid to die." And once he said "There will be but one question I will dread to answer: 'Albert how did you spend your time? Did you help others to know of the Life Beyond? Did you fear to talk of the Great Adventure all must take? Were you too busy with the trivial things to show some pilgrim the Way?'"

How well I can answer these questions, for he did tell many of the things he knew of the Life Beyond, but not until he was asked, not until he knew there was a burning desire in the mind of the one seeking truth, then he would say:

"Why there is nothing to fear, for death is but the natural sequence of this excursion of life. It is the taking off your old coat and putting on a new one to enter a room more cheerful - where life is a song. We are in the world now but our sight is too clouded to see its wondrous beauty, and our ears too dull to hear its music. But when the Death Angel calls we slip out of the body and become conscious of what we were not conscious of before, we are finer and have greater understanding."

So when this brother of mine closed his eyes in sleep, I know he awoke in that etheric world that Holmes has said "Has a Light never seen on land or sea," and where many called to him, "Good Morning, Albert."

It was a wonderful Home Going! What a reunion with those he had followed to the very door to the Beyond. What rare adventure is now his, to walk among the stars and see the operation of God's great workshop? What companionship with rare souls of literature and art, of invention and discovery. Ah! This is the day when his dreams have come true. Where has he gone? To the Golden City and who knows but tomorrow or the next day we too may journey on. Time goes so fast.

Do you remember what the Death Angel said in that wonderful story "Death Takes a Holiday?" He said, "Do not fear me, for when you know me I am beautiful and some day I will take you by the hand and lead you to the very gates of Paradise and what is Beyond is too wonderful for words."

Albert has gone through the gates and found that beauty. That is the message he sends as I write. So the peace that passes all understanding is now mine.

Singer was indicted by the county grand jury yesterday on three murder counts, growing out of the shooting July 20th of Wesley CAUFMAN, his wife and their 12-year-old daughter

Marjory [CAUFMAN].

"I still am not sorry I did it. I think I was justified in killing them, because they were so cruel to me," Singer said after sentence was pronounced.

Singer was employed as a farm hand by the Cauffmans when the triple slaying occurred. He killed his victims with a shot gun and buried their bodies in a barn.

Telling the neighbors the family had gone to their former farm home near Louisville, Kentucky for a vacation. The farm hand continued to live at the home.

The Sunday prior to the Tuesday, when the murders were discovered, Singer spent the day in this city with friends.

Citizens of Rochester and the surrounding country were shocked when word was passed around that J. F. DYSERT had died, the end coming Saturday evening at near 6 o'clock, at his home on West Eighth street, after a somewhat busy day, for although he was not feeling as well as usual, he went about his daily affairs and at about 4:30 o'clock was at his place of business, the RACKET clothing store. The end came after all human help was exhausted and medical skill had failed to relieve his intense pain.

Joseph F. DYSERT, son of the late George W. and Sarah Ellen (REEBUCK) DYSERT was born in Mercer county, Ohio, January 23, 1869. He grew up and was educated in the public schools of Rockford, Ohio, and in early manhood entered the clothing business with his father. In 1893 he was elected to the office of county clerk of Mercer county on the Independent ticket and served two terms. During this time he was united in marriage with Miss Laura A. PONTIUS, of Rockford, who until the hour of his death was his faithful companion and advisor in all of his subsequent business life.

In the latter part of February, 1907, Mr. and Mrs. Dysert became citizens of Rochester, he purchasing the GUTHRIE clothing store located at that time in the room now occupied by the Farmers & Merchants Bank and later moved to the present location in the Masonic building. Realizing his health was not up to standard, he called to his assistance two young men, Chas. PYLE and R. C. JOHNSON, who became partners in the store and relieved Mr. Dysert of much of his previous duties in that respect. But he could not be idle, the urge to do and to be was ever present, so he became the builder of what was then known as the K. G. theatre which is now occupied by KARN'S Coffee Shop and KARN'S Hotel. His business expansion did not stop there, he bought property in several different cities east and west, and acquired farm lands in Fulton county in which he took great interest. His latest venture was to remodel the Boston Store after a destructive fire laid that room and others in dire waste. Today the Boston Store is housed in a building that would be a credit to a much larger city and J. F. Dysert was the leading spirit who changed the map of Main street, in that section of the street, from that of a country town to the present metropolitan appearance.

In everything he did for himself, he did something for Rochester that would add to its attractiveness and create a better impression on strangers visiting the city.

Few people really knew Mr. Dysert, for there was a side he never willingly displayed, a side that had to do with generosity and high ideals. There-although he had men constantly employed in one capacity or another, he never took advantage of the so-called depression, he hired them for their worth and paid them what they earned, always giving a little more than demanded. Few knew that during the World War a large-sized check went to the American boys fighting in Belgium. The writer of this article was told this as a profound secret, having stumbled on the truth in her capacity as a newspaper writer. Few know of other transactions of like character, for his right hand carefully guarded good deeds of the left. All was done in an unassuming way as part of the day's march.

There was a humorous side of the deceased that enjoyed a joke or a good yarn, and his ability as a character reader and imitator was almost uncanny. As for religion he claimed no other guide than a fervent desire to do right for the sake of right doing. Honest himself to the last penny, or moment of time, he demanded the same of others. Loyal in friendships, he appreciated the same loyalty from others. In fact his philosophy of life made him a four-square citizen, fearing neither the present nor the future, for out of the mass of life's mysteries, he wove for himself the fabric of idealism, of beauty as he saw it in a beautiful sunset, or the outworking of a plan that meant a better building or a finer place to work. In all of this he was silently conscious of Divinity in its highest manifestation in man and nature, in the good he found in living.

Politically, J. F. Dysert was an outspoken Republican, yet he sounded the depths of all political parties, and held fast to what he believed was fair and honest.

A good citizen has gone onward. He has left a monument of more than brick and stone, he has left with us a masonry of an active life that constructed but never wilfully destroyed; of one who asked no reward, expected no praise, wanted no eulogy. One who only asked to live to make the world more worthwhile, a better place for better men. His farewell here was "Good Night," his salutation There will be "Good Morning."

The survivors are Mrs. Dysert, a half-brother, O. W. DYSERT of Toledo, Ohio and two nieces also of Toledo.

A short service will be conducted Tuesday morning at nine o'clock at the house, Rev. STOVALL in charge, then the remains will be conveyed to Rockford, Ohio where the funeral proper will take place at 2 o'clock Eastern Standard time, with Rev. T. L. STOVALL officiating. Interment will be made in the Rockford cemetery. -- By Marguerite MILLER.

J. F. DYSERT
[editorial]

Rochester and community have suffered an irreparable loss through the sudden demise of one of its foremost citizens, Joseph F. DYSERT. "J.F." as the deceased was familiarly known to his legion of business associates and friends was a public spirited, progressive type of citizen who proceeded in his methodical-like manner, to do things, big things, for his community, and sought no fan-fare after having accomplished his varied tasks.

Mr. Dysert possessed the keenest of business acumen and constantly forged ahead with his plan for civic improvement in uncanny wisdom which yielded ideals into realism and his constructive program was not confined immediately to his home vicinity, but extended throughout numerous sections of the United States.

During his residency in Rochester, he kept in constant touch with all things pertaining to the city's welfare, and gave unstintingly to every worthy project, yet he abhorred the giving of any publicity in this regard. He took a firm stand in political as well as civic affairs and his associates were never in doubt as to where he stood. In all his vast commercial activities, Mr.

Dysert found time to enjoy the acquaintance of not only his business associates, and his neighbors, but with those in all walks of life. He was a friend to mankind, and thoroughly enjoyed contact with his fellow-man. Joseph F. Dysert and his work will long be remembered in this community.

A shiny new rifle in the hands of its 13 year old owner brought sorrow into the home of the John STRAND family who reside on a farm fourteen miles west of this city near Monterey when Evelyn STRAND, aged nine, died in the Woodlawn Hospital at 6 o'clock Monday morning.

Evelyn was accidentally shot by her brother Sunday afternoon shortly before four o'clock. The lad had secured the new rifle Saturday and Sunday afternoon he was shooting at various targets in the yard at his home.

Evelyn and her four sisters were playing within the house. There was a crash of broken glass and the girl fell to the floor writhing in pain. Her parents rushed to the side of the screaming child and soon learned that she had suffered an injury in the abdomen but at first did not realize what had happened.

An examination of the window to the room in which the Strand children were playing cleared the mystery as a hole through the glass bore evidence that it had been pierced by a bullet.

Dr. A. J. KELSEY of Monterey, was called and after an examination brought the injured Evelyn to the Woodlawn Hospital where an operation was performed immediately. It was found that the bullet had pierced the child's intestines in twenty places.

Lowell [STRAND], who with his parents and four sisters are the only immediate survivors of the dead girl, recalls having fired his gun at a target in the general direction of the Strand home but did not realize until attracted by the commotion within the house that the bullet had gone astray and struck his sister.

William HINDLE, deputy state fire marshal, has been called to Indianapolis because of the death of his brother Carl HINDLE, aged 53, who died after a two weeks illness.

They buried Evelyn STRAND yesterday as her classmates, boys and girls, of the fourth grade in the public school at Monterey, relatives and friends, wept at the lonely grave in a rural cemetery at the Round Oak Christian church Wednesday afternoon.

Evelyn, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John STRAND, fell the victim of a rifle bullet Sunday in an accident that involved her 13-year-old brother, Lowell [STRAND], then a proud possessor of a .22-calibre rifle that brought sorrow into the modest farm home and the Monterey community.

Evelyn's books remain undisturbed in her desk and Lowell's rifle has been relegated to the closet probably never to be used again. Lowell struck his sister in the abdomen when shooting at a target near the Strand home. The bullet passed through a glass window and struck Evelyn while she was playing with her four sisters.

Star City, Ind., Dec. 18. -- Selecting his wife's birthday for the act, John F. BIRD, 76, ex-farmer and late garage employee, ended his life in the barn at the home of his son, Inman [BIRD], here Thursday afternoon by firing the charge of a shotgun into his heart.

The tragedy was discovered by the son when he returned to his home about 5 o'clock and found the body of his father crumpled in a chair in the building where the aged man's furniture was stored.

Dr. C. E. LINTON, Pulaski county coroner, was summoned and estimated that death had taken place approximately three hour previous.

For a number of years Mr. Bird operated a Pulaski county farm and later was a bookkeeper in a Binns garage at Winamac. His health failed a few years ago and since the death of his wife he has made his home with the son, Inman, here.

Mrs. Inman BIRD reported to the coroner that shortly before 2 o'clock she and her baby went for an automobile ride but that the aged man preferred to remain at home. She said before that hour Mr. Bird had been playing with the baby and appeared in excellent spirits.

Failing health and brooding over the death of his wife are believed to have lead to the tragedy.

Going to the barn where his furniture was in storage, Mr. Bird secured his favorite chair, placed it on the floor and seated himself within it. Indications are that he placed the loaded weapon between his knees with the muzzle of the gun against his chest and then used a small stick with which to push the trigger.

Fry and Lange of Winamac will hold funeral services for the deceased at their chapel in Winamac at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The Rev. J. J. MEYER, Winamac Presbyterian church will officiate and interment will be in Star City.
